Many psychologists and theoreticals throughout history have been fascinated by human nature and by because human beings do the things they do. To analyze some of the components and behaviors that we will read in LOTF, we will give a look at two very famous experiments that have been used to test human nature. In both cases, the participants in the studies unconsciously showed the dark side of humanity, a concept of which William Golding speaks through the actions of his characters. Open the Stanford Prison Study and Milgram Experiment Worksheet and answer questions about each study. The Stanford Prison Study website is still operational and tells detail the events of the experiment. You will be required to read and understand the basic distribution of both studies and how they could apply to the book. Get ready to discuss these examples in the classroom.
